

WWT Wetlands for life

Reserves Management HQ: Office & Research Placement at WWT

The Wildfowl and Wetlands Trust has one placement vacancy for 2018-19 in the Reserves Management Department. This placement will be based at our Slimbridge Wetland Centre in beautiful Gloucestershire and will offer the successful candidate a range of experiences in wetland management, research and data collection and analysis. This post would suit someone who enjoys being part of small enthusiastic teams, has a good variety of skills, and wants to learn the co-ordination and strategic side of reserves management. This is a mainly office based role.

The Wildfowl and Wetlands Trust is one of the UK's leading conservation organisations in wetland ecology with a long history of managing wetland sites and conducting research and re-introduction programmes in the UK. Our reserves are exciting places to be throughout the year. Large flocks of shoveler, wigeon and golden plover can be seen each winter, alongside the thousands of swans, and the reed fringes are a good place to spot wintering bitterns or otters. While in summer waders such as redshank and lapwing nest in the grasslands and dragonflies cruise the waterways. Water voles are a common sight in spring and summer, and there's always a variety of reptiles and amphibians.

While the successful candidate will need to commit to volunteering for the Trust for 52 weeks, for approximately 37.5 hours per week, there will be excellent opportunities to develop useful skills for the UK job market in areas of ecology, conservation and reserves management. If volunteering as a student placement you will be able to carry out your own research project if required by your university as part of your assessment, supported by friendly WWT staff with significant experience in their field. Although the placement will be unpaid accommodation can be provided.
